About the Foundation

WRHN Foundation raises money to help WRHN provide exceptional health care. The foundation is led by a volunteer Board of Governors and run by staff, who work with the hospital's leadership team to learn about patient needs and how their support can improve patient experience and care.

With the help of generous donors, supporters and community partners, the foundation raises millions of dollars for the hospital each year. This money is used to pay for medical equipment, programs and other initiatives that are not funded by the government or other sources. This includes paying for lodging for cancer patients who live outside the Waterloo Wellington area.
